News from Braunschweig

The Braunschweig Carnival was a huge success in February after the sad cancellation in 2015 due to terrorist threats. Though there were 50,000 fewer people in comparison to previous years. The motto was (something like): Now more than ever! Jetzt erst recht! Following Angie's motto "Wir schaffen das" (We will make it).

The situation of the refugees has improved a lot, I think. There are now fewer people in the Reception Centre where everyone has to register first and instead permanent accommodation is being built (lightweight construction or gym halls are being used). A very nice gesture happened last week in the city centre. Refugees were distributing roses to the Braunschweig population in order to say Thank you for the warm welcome. That was very emotional and moving.

Forced Walks (sequel)

On 4th and 5th February Lorna Brunstein and Richard White led a small party of British and German walkers from Hannover to Bergen Belsen following the exact route of the forced march taken by Esther Brunstein (Lorna's mother) in February 1945.

The walk reminded us that a refugee's journey is long and troubled and continues until they find safety, a welcome and a sense of belonging.

BRIDGE BETWEEN TWIN CITIES

Bath bridge players are looking forward to the visit of eleven guests from Braunschweig at the beginning of July. Our guests are members of the "Bridge and Art" club which recently featured in a local news programme of North German Television. While in Bath they will be playing with "Bridge and Games - Bath", who are hosting the visitors, and also with "Bath Bridge Club". We hope they will also have time to relax and enjoy the local attractions.

Concert in memory of Gerhard and Marita Siefert

Concerts are planned in both Bath and Braunschweig to remember these 2 musicians who led musical exchanges between our twin cities in the 1980s. Their daughter Antje Siefert will perform George Odam's recent work Year Songs for voice and piano which is dedicated to Antje.

The Harz

45 mins by train to the south of Braunschweig lies the picturesque town of Goslar, gateway to the Harz Mountains.

The Harz is the land of German fairy tales, dark forests, mediaeval villages and wicked witches. Steam trains carry passengers on 140 Km of narrow gauge railway from the lowest point Quedlingburg to the highest point Brocken at 1125 metres.
